Retro

	Start	Stop	Continue
	Size elements correctly on larger screens, so that there is not as much blank space on the page	Do not have unclear navigation such as arrows to switch stanzas when there is only a single stanza	Continue using the material design philosophy to keep the website looking clean
	Have a mobile first design philosophy to make sure that everything works for smaller viewports as well.	Have a clear direction for the website from the beginning, since it is confusing to have a navigation bar that seems like a normal website, but popup search forms that make it seem like an app	Continue having an appropriate color palette
	Include an info page on how to use the product so that users will have no questions	Do not include features that have not been fully completed
	Make sure that the main functionality of the app is the primary focus when the user enters the website
